PORTHGLEIS - Salmon Creek. The scene of the landing of Twrch Trwyth
(see Lady Charlotte Guest's "Mabinogion" p. 254, and note p. 292.)

"A haven is formed by the mouth of the River Allan, at Porth clais, about one mile from the city, where a pier was constructed, at a very early period, to defend it from the ~~waves~~ violence of the waves, and was rebuilt in 1722."
